

And the Winner is... The Environment

Good environmental management of their own plant at Lidcombe is only one way for Offset Alpine Printing to contribute to the broader community. Taking an interest in, and supporting their neighbours is also a great way to spread the word in the community and demonstrate that Offset Alpine do care for the local environment.

In line with this and with Offset Alpine Printing's aim to be a leader in the environmental field, they became a major sponsor of the Auburn Council's Clean Street Awards.

The purpose of these annual awards is to encourage the local community to think and act in a green and environmentally friendly manner.

Part of the Auburn Festival, held between 16 and 25 September this year, these annual awards recognized the street judged to be the leader in cleanliness, visual appeal and safety.

The awards give residents an opportunity to showcase their pride and commitment to their local area by cleaning up their street and submitting a nomination form.

Stuart Hoogstad Human Resources Manager, and Robert Crowe Environmental Management Representative, attended the awards ceremony in September on behalf of Offset Alpine Printing, with the major prize being awarded to Woodburn Road in Lidcombe.
