

Offset Alpine Printing Wins Printer of the Year

Offset Alpine Printing has once again taken out top honours in Magazines at the Sappi Printers of the Year awards, with its Australian Geographic entry.

As one of only four Gold Sappi Printer of the Year winners in Australia, Offset Alpine is now qualified to go on to compete for the title of World Printer of the Year in the world final, to be judged in Budapest in October.

The Sappi Printers of the Year awards promotes printing around the world as a forward looking, high quality medium of communication.

The prestigious competition has increasingly become the focus of printers who recognise that a win confers a standing not only in their own locale, but around the world.

According to Hugh Martin, managing director of Sappi Trading, the competition is the premium showcase for the finest printers.

“As a global market leader in the manufacture of coated fine paper, we are proud to recognise and honour these printers for their excellence in print achievement.”

Martin went on to say that the winners were particularly impressive with work that continues to demonstrate the power of print as a marketing and communications medium.

Congratulations to Offset Alpine Printing and best of luck in the world final. May you go on to receive one of the coveted Sappi Elephant Trophies as the world final winner.

Craig Dunsford (far right), collects the award for Gold Sappi printer of the Year Award on behalf of Offset Alpine Printing for the printing of Australian Geographic.

